

Intentional Leadership

“How can I be a leader with Missouri Farm Bureau?”

Missouri Farm Bureau offers many opportunities for leadership and success. As a member-based organization, Missouri Farm Bureau relies on its members for direction, growth, and ultimately, leadership. There are many opportunities to strengthen skills and develop the qualities of a good leader.

How can you get involved?

- Youth Leadership Day
 - Each year high school students spend a day at the home office in Jefferson City. Students are able to tour the state capitol, speak with elected officials, and hear from speakers on important agriculture issues and topics.
 - <https://mofb.org/education/youth-leadership/>
- Ambassador Program
 - One female and one male student ages 17-22 are selected each year to serve as Ambassadors for Missouri Farm Bureau. Members are awarded a $2,500 scholarship and travel to Washington D.C. in March for a legislative trip.
 - <https://mofb.org/education/youth-leadership/>
- Collegiate Chapters
 - There are currently seven Collegiate Farm Bureau chapters across Missouri. These chapters are organized by college students with the help of a faculty advisor. Members can attend events, conferences, trips, and various competitions.
 - <https://mofb.org/education/collegiate-programs/>
- Young Farmers and Ranchers
 - Farmers and ranchers ages 18-35 can join the Missouri Farm Bureau Young Farmers and Ranchers program. This allows members to connect with one another and support agriculture.
 - <https://mofb.org/young-farmers-ranchers/>
- County Boards
 - Members may choose to serve on their county board to provide support for agriculture and the organization within their area.
 - <https://mofb.org/county-offices/>